The nhow London hotel is situated in the thriving metropolitan area between the trendy hotspots of Hoxton, Islington and Shoreditch.

Modern edge

After acquiring a new venue in the heart of East London, the team at nhow hotels launched a competition asking for designers to submit their visions for the hotel's new interior. Project Orange pipped others to the post, proposing an unconventional dynamic design that successfully blends traditional and contemporary styles.

Individual style

The hotel's 190 new rooms were designed to combine traditional British icons with eccentric modern cues. The venue's standard rooms and Junior Suites, which boast doorways reminiscent of traditional London townhouses, are kitted-out with designer furniture, avant-garde artwork, bespoke bathroom amenities, and beautiful, eye-catching Amtico flooring.

Bespoke touch

The floors are in a bespoke Pleat laying pattern, made from an enticing combination of Amtico Spacia Woods and Stones, and bold Amtico Signature Abstracts. The energetic Bangkok and Rio red Abstracts are used prominently in the rooms' entrances, with the colour dispersing as you enter the main living space. The vivacious Abstracts complement the rooms' vibrant red feature walls while playfully paying homage to the famous London red bus.

Laying Pattern

Pleat

Herringbone Pleat is beautiful in its simplicity yet elevated by its perfectly precise angles and neatly balanced design. The brilliance of this pattern is that for such a seemingly simple design, you can create something truly unique for your floor and combine seven different colours with the Endless Possibilities option.

Bold statements. Big ideas. What our clients say.

"We worked with Amtico to generate a hybrid design using a plain colour popping out of stone and wood textures to create an eye-catching design in the spirit of the nhow promise: Old London Reloaded. From a functional and aesthetic point of view the product is resilient, playful and brings character to the bedrooms."

James Soane
Director
Project Orange

"We are very happy with the design of our new nhow hotel in London. The rooms perfectly embody our vision for a cosmopolitan home-away-from-home and the eye-catching Amtico flooring makes an impression from the second you open the door."
