Amtico Signature

The Grange is a public primary school in Banbury, Oxfordshire, which educates over three hundred children between the ages of four and eleven. With so many students, the school needed a durable flooring solution that could combat its high footfall.

During the summer holidays, the school took the opportunity to renovate; knocking down a wall that separated two main dining areas and employing Abstract Flooring Co to update the floors in several key areas, including the main hall, reception, classroom foyers and stairwells.

Large quantities of natural light meant any imperfections, no matter how slight, would be visible. Abstract Flooring Co removed the existing tired parquet flooring from the main hall and the worn carpet from other areas and set about creating an even base. Once the subfloor preparation work was complete, the company laid Blonde Oak, a timber-effect Luxury Vinyl Tile (LVT) from Amtico's Signature collection. With its generous 1mm wear layer, the LVT was the ideal choice for combating the high volume of traffic the school sees on a daily basis.

"The main hall and another large area were combined to create a large dining space that would be used by the whole school, so easy-to-clean LVT was the obvious choice. We chose Amtico Signature as it has a thick 1mm wear layer, making it the most durable LVT on the market, and its wide variety of colours and design layouts, which enabled us to create a modern look. Amtico was very helpful, particularly with the design of the logo. The company recommended what colours would work best to recreate the school's emblem and even supplied technical drawings the same day so we could see exactly how it would look, and it was perfect!"
