Supercity is a chain of 'apartment hotels', offering tenants apartment living with a hotel-style booking system. The company owns multiple venues in London and Brighton, and has recently opened its newest venue in Manchester.

Luxury location

Perfectly situated in the city's Northern Quarter, an area known for its bustling nightlife and music culture, Supercity Manchester is a 68-suite property a short walk from Manchester Piccadilly train station and just a 30-minute journey from Manchester's international airport.

Bohemian style

The venue offers three styles of one-bed suites and two styles of two-bed suites, each finished with a bold interior rich in bohemian style. The rooms are bright and airy, showcasing artwork from local artists and designers, and feature beautiful Amtico flooring throughout.

Perfect choice

Throughout the living areas, the 68 apartments feature Amtico Signature Fused Birch in a Basket Weave laying pattern, chosen by the designers at Fusion Interiors Group. Each bathroom is fitted with the hotel's own choice of Ceramic Light. The hotel's management wanted the bathrooms to feature Amtico Spacia 36+, the company's highly slip-resistant LVT manufactured with advanced antimicrobial protection, however they fell in love with Amtico's Ceramic Light, a pale grey design with a mottled aesthetic that mimics the look of natural ceramic tiles. Although Ceramic Light was not part of the Spacia 36+ collection, Amtico manufactured the product especially so the company didn't have to compromise on its design vision or safety concerns.

"We chose Amtico LVT because we wanted wood effect flooring throughout the apartments and we were working around tight budgets. We had already used Amtico on similar projects and were very happy with the look and the hard-wearing properties; it's a brand that we can trust. We chose the basket weave pattern to create an interesting floor layout and break up the spaces where the flooring covers larger areas."
