The Choice restaurant can be found in a beautiful coastal town called Jurmala, which is located to the west of Riga, Latvia.

Reflecting its proximity to the sea, the beautiful interior concept combines various sandy tones with alluring soft blue accents. Aligned with this design concept, the wall art features golden beaches that meet the blue of the sea.

The flooring design gives this whole restaurant a Nordic look – it features White Oak from the Amtico Spacia collection in a classic Herringbone pattern. This soft design brightens contemporary interiors with its cool graceful tones and is perfectly highlighted by the large windows of the restaurant. A thin perimeter plank frames the flooring and finishes the clean look.

Herringbone is a timeless but contemporary pattern, and often used to provide subtle wayfinding throughout. It remains a popular choice and can be installed with all standard sizes that Amtico offers. If you are looking for a smaller herringbone look, simply select one of our two predefined parquet sizes.
