

Amtico Project

Royal Albert Dock

Royal Albert Quay, London

Office

Bespoke

Situated in East London, Royal Albert Dock is an exciting regeneration project worth £1.7bn.

The new commercial district boasts 4.7 million sq ft of office, residential, retail and leisure spaces. Developer ABP tasked design and build company Egg Group with creating different styles, and completing the fitout, for each floor of the four-storey Marketing Building.

The finished office building boasts a welcoming design with zoned areas in Amtico LVT to sensitively balance wellness in the workplace with efficiency. Egg Group selected a variety of designs from the Amtico Signature and Access LVT collections, to fitout the open-plan CAT A space, allowing prospective buyers and tenants to visualise how the building can be transformed.

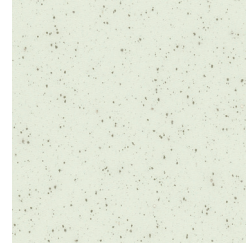

"Egg was very impressed by the support offered by the Amtico sales team. Amtico's collaboration has completed the fitout vision of this exciting new waterfront development at Royal Albert Dock. The flooring products look fantastic and the developer, ABP London, is very pleased with the results and the positive feedback from the marketing agents, and prospective buyers and tenants."

When considering the raised access floor and the number of services below it, the team at Egg Group looked to Amtico's Access loose lay collection to provide a durable, yet stylish, floor that can be lifted and refitted as required. Access is designed to work seamlessly with other Amtico LVT collections, making it possible to create and define zones using different shape, colour and texture combinations. Egg Group created two bespoke Access designs; the sweeping linear grains of Dusky Walnut surround the kitchen area in a Pleat-inspired pattern, and rustic Sun Bleached Oak is laid in a Palisade-style.
